

Chris Paskach

Board Member

Chris Paskach was the founding Managing Director of The Claro Group's Disputes, Claims & Investigations Analytics practice. As a nationally recognized thought leader in electronic evidence discovery, he has published and presented extensively on topics related to the defensible use of advanced analytics in legal investigations.

His practice group comprised data scientists, financial consultants, former practicing attorneys, and CPAs who help companies and their counsel prepare for investigations, disputes, and other controversies. By focusing on effective collaboration and controlled processes, Chris ensured that the diverse expertise of his team leveraged the best available technologies to quickly deliver high value insights to help his clients win.

Prior to joining Claro, Chris established and led the 225-member National Forensic Technology practice at a Big Four firm for over a decade. Over his tenure, the team he led grew profitably at a fifteen percent compound annual growth rate. His team provided professional advisory and technology support to major companies and their counsel, managing corporate information and responding to requests for Electronically Stored Information in front-page investigations and litigation.
